DIGITAL MARKETING

We conceptualise, develop and manage all elements of a digital campaign or promotion. The digital strategy ensures that you get the best results for your budget.

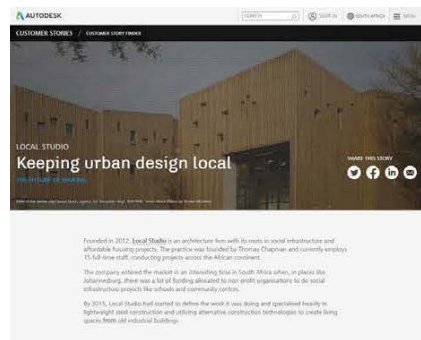

The Poly Studio Video Bar outperforms its competitors, at the same price. Customers didn't know that. Yet. The re-launch campaign focused on positioning this message in simple ways and driving customers to 'test' it out in a demo.

Trenic began selling their product via their online store. We were tasked with creating their eCommerce store and then developing a campaign to promote their store.

CONTENT CREATION

We pay attention to what you say and how you say it. Articles, case studies, social media content and newsletters are created to get your message across in the most effective way.

Socially Beneficial

As the political climate in South Africa changed to aid the government's direction and funding dried up for social infrastructure projects, Thomas Chapman and his team at Local Studio started working on affordable housing projects across the African continent.

The company entered the market in an interesting trial in South Africa when, in places like Johannesburg, there was a lot of funding allocated to non-profit organizations to do social infrastructure projects like schools and community centres.

By 2015, Local Studio had started to define the work it was doing and specialized heavily in lightweight steel construction and offering alternative construction technologies to create living spaces from old industrial buildings.

Out with the old in with the new

When it comes to moving old infrastructure there are several challenges that set this type of project apart from a new build, says Chapman. "With commercial buildings, the old industrial and office buildings we work with are not suited for residential use. These buildings often have poor floor plans and high floor-to-ceiling heights. Design that could make new apartments, but make it really expensive to convert to residential space."

One of the big challenges with moving these old buildings is figuring out how to make efficient use of the available space while ensuring natural light and ventilation remain a priority.

Since a conversion is also a tricky one because you need retrofit services, says Chapman. "Only about 5% of the projects we've done had a nice service that we can just tap into when we convert to apartments."

There is strong competition within the affordable housing space and the biggest measure of success is the occupancy rate of developments. Chapman says apartments that fill up the fastest are those that have a price between R1,000 and R1,500 per month. These units will range in size from 15 to 25 square metres and are usually built from steel.

THE FUTURE OF COLLABORATION AND PRODUCTIVITY

When last were you able to deliver a seriously productive day? Perhaps a more important question is where - was it at the office or at home? If the previous decade saw the ubiquitous rise of the open office, the coming one will see the complete decentralisation of the workplace.

As industries and economies are upended, everyone needs to remain agile and adapt to new ways of working. Fuelled by health concerns, a growing demand for flexible working options requires a different perspective around how a company innovates through collaboration.

As we face spatial challenges, we look to technology to future proof our teams and businesses. While business intelligence will continue to improve the future of

Investing in your employees

Today's knowledge workers can easily become overwhelmed by the number of tools required by their workflow. HubSpot memorably labelled this phenomenon as "death by 1,000 apps." Conflicting communications platforms combined with the deluge of emails and conference calls

New this month: The MEED report interrogates the digital evolution of organizations, understand the importance of stakeholder engagement in infrastructure projects, follow a French city as they plan their route to smart city starting with a water plant, understand the benefits of integrating BIM and GIS, honour a decade of AEC innovators and designers and read Susan's Etlinger's reports on 5 lessons from a year of upheaval.

Report: Digital Evolution

The 3rd MEED Report looks at the digital evolution of organizations who are leveraging data and digital twins to achieve higher levels of quality, safety and efficiency.
